

To the best mums in the world

From children at Awliscombe school

Dear Mummy,
Happy Mother's Day you are the best mum in the whole world, you always help me with my homework. Even when you tell me to tidy my room when its already tidy I will always love you no matter what. You are the most comforting mum I could ever have in my whole life. You will always be there for me in the dark times I have.
Love from Braken

Mum,
Every day I expect food on my plate, clothes in my wardrobe, notebooks to write in and you for company. I never really think to say thank you for all you provide. My life is happy. My life is perfect and it's all thanks to you.
You never give yourself credit. You push yourself to the limit every day, trying to get everything done.
I truly am grateful and a million thank yous won't express my gratefulness for you. You love me and I love you. I am so proud to call you my mum. You mean the world to me. THANK YOU!
I hope you have a GREAT Mothering Sunday. Every time you laugh, every time you smile, remember you deserve it. No one deserves it more. I love you so much!

Mum
Every day you give me food, Help me if I'm in a foul mood, You care for me every single day.
A thank you I should always say.

Always you buy me clothes, Every day you smell like a rose.
You remind me to tidy my room,
You tell me I will complete my dreams soon.

A happy mother's day I wish for you,
Everyone should have a clue, On how good a mother you are to me,
Thank you Mum, you're great you see.

Dear Mum,
I am so thankful for what you do. You do all of the house work and all of the cooking and not forgetting washing my clothes. You care for me and my sister. I love you and you have improved my confidence levels. You also make sure I am happy and joyful, as well as that you make my pack lunch every morning. Personally, I think that would be so hard!
You have looked after me for 10 whole years, and I can be quite difficult! I cannot express how grateful I am to have you as my mum. You are

Dear Mum,
You always help me with my homework I am so grateful. If I am stuck, you help me if I am down you always pick me back up again. Even though you are a vegetarian you always cook the best food and really don't have to you could say even if you want meat you cook it but no you cook it for us. That is why you are the best mum.

You are always organised and are never late picking me up from school and clubs. I am so privileged to have a mum who drives me to clubs at night and stays up to pick me up even if you are really tired. You really care for me, even if I am a bit forgetful. You take me to fun places in the holidays and try to make me have a fun time. Thank you for all you do for me.
Love from Sophia Rose

Dear Mummy,

Mum you might have tidied my bedroom a couple of times (or maybe a few more) or even taken me to every Bride: The Wedding Show that I can even remember. But one day you will have a day of freedom (but possibly when Martha isn't there). You mean the world to me and how it is my turn to give it back to you. By maybe throwing a party for you or letting you actually go on a holiday that you just go to or having a day just to yourself. But sometimes when you compare yourself to Cinderella it makes me think more deeply about what you do for me. But you will one day go to the ball (really when we both leave home, then you will throw a massive party that I am sure we won't be invited to).

Mum, words can't simply describe what you do for me. I can't simply just say thank you for it all. So mum on your special day kick back and relax and know that I will always love you for as long as I live.

To my mum
As I travel through this life I know one thing is true I will never see a better mum than I have in you.
From Lezy

Mum
I don't think there are enough words that mean I love you in the universe to explain how I feel.
Rosie

Mum,
There is no word to describe you are amazing. You brought me into this world. I love you mum.
Elli

Thanks, love, relief, care, joyfully, that is my Mum.
Harry

Mum there are many words to describe you but here's one, the best!

A letter to my mother

Dear Mother,
It is now ninety three years ago that you gave life to me. I know that you won't be able to read this letter as you are no longer with us, and as it is written in English, which is not our language. However, I am certain that you will understand my thoughts on this very special day. I would like to thank you so very much for having been a wonderful mother to me during the few years you and I were able to be together. You taught me all you knew, and you made sure that I grew up to be an honest, decent caring human being. You also taught me that there is no such thing as being too difficult. Whenever I came across one of life's difficulties you told me to say "I will". This helped me a lot in my long life, and I am still saying it to this day.

When I had to leave home during those dreadful years of strife, life must have been very difficult for you, especially as you were not in the best of health. I cannot imagine what it must have been like for you when you did not hear from me for ten months, not knowing whether I was alive or dead. When you finally heard that I was safe the jubilation was great, as you told me later; but it would be another ten years before we would see each other again. Your long informative letters would keep me going all that time. I still have all of them. Well you know the rest, well almost. You paid me the greatest compliment when you finally met Edna and said that I could not have found a nicer person in my homeland. I agree, and thank you.

So here we are, I still chatting to you as if you were here sitting next to me. Perhaps there is some sort of telepathy for you and I to communicate. I am sure there is. I am an old man now and we have four grandchildren, and three great-grandsons. They all have heard of you and seen the photos we have. None of this would have been possible without you. I shall close now my dearest Mum. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for all you have done for me. Who knows, perhaps one day we shall meet again? With all my never ending love.
Your Peter xxx

Memories of a mother

So many memories I shall cherish today Not merely in passing But in so many ways You were my comfort My helper my friend And when I was troubled You were my guide to the end

I cannot see you But I'll never despair When I honour your memory You still will be there.
